State Of War In Viet Nam

The U.S. State Department's "white paper" discussing U.S. intervention in Viet Nam's internal struggle is a meaningful concession to popular interest in a deepening crisis.

The United States has drifted into a state of war in Viet Nam. It has been drifting since the mid-'50s when France was driven out of Indo-China and the United States undertook a sub-surface campaign to thwart the Chinese Communist-oriented Vietnamese forces that had ousted French militarism.

The question always has been whether the United States ever would let it appear that U.S. militarism was taking the place of French militarism.

Even deeper than that, the question was whether the United States could make itself appear more attractive to the Vietnamese than the French had been able to make themselves. That question still hangs in the balance.

The American people have been told it is not in their best interest to be kept fully informed about Viet Nam because to do so would reveal things to the opposition the opposition should not know.

The melee has turned into a nightmarish mish-mash of reassurances that don't reassure, statements that tend to fall apart while they are being issued and gnawing doubts and fears.

60 Per Cent In One Jump

If wage economics were as easy for economists to understand as for labor leaders, no one could doubt the effect of another boost in the minimum wage rate-from $1.25 to $2 an hour, as will be recommended to the White House by a delegation from AFL-CIO. It would be like money from home-pie falling out of the

But economists don't actually know the effect of boosting minimum wages. They only know bits and pieces of the effect, such as the effect on Southern mill operators and lumber interests.

Every time Northern industry has backed a minimum wage boost, Southern enterprise has lost a little of its lowwage-rate advantage. Over-all, boosting minimum wages tends to narrow the wage differential between unskilled and skilled wage earners. Northern employers have a lively interest in this effect of minimum wage laws.

BUT A PARALLEL effect is to decrease employment for low-skill employes. If lowskill jobs cannot be eliminated entirely, as they have been in the case of selfautomated procedures, employers have a powerful incentive to hire fewer employes, pay more and require more work.

In the past, higher minimum rates for unskilled workers, like higher rates for skilled workers, have been a strong in-

But a war is being fought. That is certain. American fighting men are being killed and wounded. They are killing and wounding natives of Viet Nam. The State Department's "white paper," letting "free men know what is happening in Viet Nam and how and why," is a gesture of confidence in the American people

Traditionally, it has been assumed that if they are told what is going on - if they understand what their government is doing - they will show confidence

IT IS GOING to take more than a "white paper" to do this in the case of Viet Nam. It is going to be harder to understand than Korea, which to this day is a dark mystery for most Americans

But a "white paper" is a belated move in the right direction. It beats another statement by Secretary of Defense Mc-Namara North Viet Nam, we now know officially, is waging war against South Viet Nam so aggressively it amounts to open invasion. That's what most of us thought it was doing.

This is why the United States now is fighting in Viet Nam with an intensity that amounts to open warfare against a country against which it has made no declaration of war.

centive for mechanization and automation. The classic example is coal mining,

once the low-pay occupation of hundreds of thousands of low-skill employes, now the high-pay occupation of tens of thousands of high-skill employes. Though higher minimum wages are talked about as a boon to low-skill, lowless value per dollar. NONE OF THESE things will be mentioned when the AFL-CIO delegation goes to the White House to put pressure on the Johnson administration for a boost in minimum pay from $1.25 to $2. To labor leaders, pay boosting is an end in itself, all dubious consequences to the contrary notwithstanding. To President Johnson, on the other hand, proposing a 60 per cent pay boost in one jump for minimum wage earners may sound too preposterous for serious con-

Life In Southern Indiana

If all has gone well, an aerial camera now has photographed large areas of southern Indiana and Space Agency experts are studying the results of a most extraordinary reason.

They want to see if the southern Indiana topography is like the surface of the moon. Or, to put their quest the other way around, they want to see if Ranger 8 television pictures of the moon, like the Ranger 7 pictures taken previously, look like the surface of southern Indiana.

A sharp-eyed space scientist, remembering what southern Indiana looks like from the air in winter when there is snow on the ground, noticed a resemblance in the moon pictures to some-verified by up-to-date photos of southern Indiana, U. S. astronauts preparing for that long-awaited landing on the moon will have no special misgivings. It will be no worse than landing on southern Indiana. The natives will be friendly.

The idea is appealing. Everybody knows, because science has said so repeatedly, that the moon is lifeless; that nothing can live there.

Is it not, then, conceivable that scientists elsewhere in the Universe, studying that earthly "Sea of Tranquillity" known as southern Indiana may have reached a similar conclusion? And how wrong they would be!

Even here on earth there have been skeptics who have doubted that life can be supported in southern Indiana. But life does exist there, some of it quite successfully. The natives are knowledgeable and take good care of their young. There even is culture, as in Brown County, where people often go to paint pictures, weave baskets and get away from northern Indiana.

To propose that American troops be withdrawn from South Korea reopens the entire Korean controversy, which has been stalemated for a dozen years. No peace treaty has ever been signed, and the armistice agreement has often been violated by the Communists

"The Soviet Union has never concealed the fact that it sold and continues to sell armaments to its ally. China.'

What the new Soviet premier today is asking is that the United Nations forget about the treason committed by one of its members, and condone also what has been happening in recent months, when the Soviets have been supplying arms to the North Vietnamese to carry on an aggression against the government of South Viet Nam.

Just why Premier Kosygin should want to focus the attention of the world on the status of the Korean problem is hard to understand. Certainly any demand that troops of the United States be withdrawn would involve the United Nations and revive the whole question of how the Republic of South Korea can be guaranteed against further attacks by the Communists in North Korea.

THE SOVIET premier speaks of the "aggressive policy of the American imperalists" in Viet Nam and also accuses the United States of interfering in Laos, which he calls "one more example of how international agreements and international law are trampled underfoot."

The record shows that international agreements and even the Charter of the United Nations have been disregarded by the Soviet Union in undermining the independence of the smaller countries of the world and in providing arms to rebel groups to overthrow constituted governments.

Mr. Kosygin talks of violations of the United Nations Charter, but ignores the evidence of how the United Nations was originally challenged in Korea through the machinations of the Soviet Union and Red China, and how attacks by Communists killed tens of thousands of troops fighting in behalf of the United Nations. More than 56,000 Americans died and 103,000 were wounded in Korea.

It's possible that the Soviet leaders think that the memories of the rest of the world are very short, anyhow, and that a revival of the Korean dispute now could actually bring about the surrender of all of Korea to the control of the Commu-

IN THE FACE of such a complete lack of comprehension of the viewpoint of the free nations of the world, it may be wondered how the Soviets themselves can expect more fraternal relations with the United States through exchange of leaders and the expansion of international contracts, especially in the field of trade and commerce.

The United States has, in the last few days, issued a "white paper" setting forth the evidence that South Viet Nam has been the victim of aggression by North Viet Nam and that the weapons used have come from Red China and the Communist-bloc countries of Eastern Europe

Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the U.N., moreover, has directed a letter to the Security Council in which he says, with respect to the Communist control of North Viet Nam, that this entire pattern of activity of the regime in Hanoi (capital of North Viet Nam) is in violation of general principles of international law, the U.N. Charter and the Geneva Agree ment of 1954 on Indochina

But the emphasis is still on Red China's activity and not on the part being played by the Soviet government in supporting with arms the aggressions on behalf of the North Vietnamese Certainly the Soviet premier has unwittingly confirmed how Communist imperialism seeks to control the world.

Johnson In A Box By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

President Johnson, being an expert with Congress, which means a combination of conciliator and arm-twister, could hope for an undisturbed and shining record if all he had to worry about were his plans and proposals for this country.

But now in Viet Nam he's in a box not of his own building and the rules are just the opposite from what he's used to. He can't telephone the Communists in Hanoi or Peking. If he tries to be conciliatory, they'll think it's weakness. And he doesn't know how they'll react to too much arm-twisting.

He inherited the problem, has had to live with it through the 15 months of his presidency, and could only hope as he saw the war deteriorate that somehow it might work out all right. But it didn't. It got worse.

Now it occupies the center of the world stage and for weeks has dwarfed all other news at home. He has had a lot of support, from Democrats and Republicans alike, for his increasingly tough policy in stepping up the war against the Reds but he knows this can be a very temporary approval. All he has to do is remember

President Harry S. Truman.

It has been only 15 years since Truman, with complete forcefulness and prompt decision sent American armed forces into South Korea to stop the Red invasion from the north, a duplicate of what has happened in Viet Nam. And Johnson knows what happened to Truman.

At first he got tremendous support, with some exceptions like Sen. Robert A. Taft, from both parties in Congress. But as the war dragged on, Americans were killed, no victory was in sight, much of the approval began to melt, the Republicans turned on him, and Korea became a major issue in the 1952 presidential campaign.

It must have been a bitter realization for Truman that one of Dwight D. Eisenhower's most popular thrusts in his campaign against Adlai E. Stevenson was to pledge, if elected, to go to Korea to seek an early and honorable end to the war. He did go, and eventually there was an armistice, leaving Korea cut in half as before.

costly strike

At this point, when he's intensifying the Vietnamese war. Johnson can't tell whether it will get worse and bigger or whether the show of toughness, which is arm-twisting on a big scale, will chill the Communist blood.

He couldn't very well pull the American forces out, no matter how he tried to explain it, without tacitly admitting an American defeat and leaving all Southeast Asia open to seizure sooner or later by the Red Chinese.

Further, if he pulled out, Republicans in the next campaign would probably accuse him of chickening out. But if the war gets worse, and American losses pile up, reaction at home against such a price for saving such a far-off place as South Viet Nam will probably increase as it did in the Korean War.

If the President's present tough policy works - meaning, if the Communists decide not to enlarge the war and agree to a negotiated peace - Johnson's prestige will benefit. But even this might be only a temporary benefit

For if there is some kind of truce, and if then the Americans pull out and communism takes over all Viet Nam. Johnson faces the prospect of having to defend himself against the charge that he was humbugged by the Reds.

So, no matter what he does in this situation, there's a good chance he will suffer some damage politically, either a lot or a little, even though no one in sight is offering a fool-proof solution that won't bring political repercussions.

Since Johnson is a man who tries to figure all the angles, particularly the political ones, it's no wonder he has stayed pretty mum these past few weeks when advice and admonitions were hitting him from all

45 Petition Against Beer Store Permit

EAST PALESTINE - A petition signed by 45 residents was filed with Council Monday night protesting the planned opening of a carry - out beer store by Mrs. Eugene Flowers to be located at the Lalley Building of W. Martin St.

Mrs. Flowers of Pinetree Circle has filed an application for a permit with the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

The petitions, signed by neighboring residents of the proposed store site, were taken under study by Council.

Council also authorized preparation of a resolution of protest against the proposed store.

The signers of the petition said they were opposed to such a business in the neighborhood. There are no schools or churches in the immediate area.

Council also directed preparation of a resolution opposing the absorption of the city health district into the Columbiana County district as proposed.

Council discussed at length the need for additional physicians in the city, and agreed to contact hospitals and medical schools and to place advertisements in medical journals. The

PAY UP OR SHUT UP!

For all Class I milk sold in the Federal Order 36 area, The Lawson Milk Company will pay its producers five dollars a hundredweight, beginning with the payment for February milk.

Lawson's will continue to pay this five-dollar price, not only for February, but for March and April milk as well.

Lawson's will also pay five dollars a hundredweight for Class I milk sold in the Federal Order 36 area for all the remaining months of 1965, provided the northeastern Ohio co-ops (AMP and MPF) will pay $5 on this same basis to their own members.

The co-ops have wasted enough of their members' time and money in trying to disrupt and destroy the loyal relationship between Lawson's and its independent producers. All the delay is costing dairy farmers money. We say it's time for the co-ops to pay up or shut up!

If you are a producer belonging to a cooperative, you know that the Class I price is now starting down. Co-op members have thousands upon thousands of dollars deducted from their combined paychecks every month for membership dues, permit fees, building funds, service charges, and advertising assessments. All this money is supposed to buy you some benefits. We invite you to call your co-op management and ask them what they are paying for your February milk, your March milk, your April milk . . . and ask them their intent for the rest of the year.

We will participate in a super-pool for Class I milk sold in the Federal Order 36 area - - - and guarantee $5 per hundredweight for that milk - - - provided the co-op here agree to the same terms. It is Lawson's intention to be the highest-paying dairy in the area, super-pool or no super-pool.

Indeed it is time for the Akron Milk Producers and the Milk Producers Federation of Cleveland to pay up or shut up!

Potters Out To End Jinx

District Tournament Trails Lead to 16 teams. Vanderbilt's 79-64 victory over Auburn and FlorVanderbilt's 79-64 victory over Auburn and FlorVanderbilt's 79-64 victory over Tennessee Monday night To Steubenville And Pittsburgh

The district tournament trail takes two routes tonight, one to Steubenville and the other leads to Pittsburgh.

At Steubenville, the Potters seek to end a tournament jinx which has followed them the past five years while Wellsville attempts to spring an upset after dropping to regular season games to

THE OTHER path leads to Pittsburgh where Midland, co-favored with Uniontown meets a tall Gateway five in the quarter-finals of the WPIAL tournament. The contest is set for 9 p. m. following a battle between Mt. Lebanon and Norwin.

East Liverpool takes an 11-7 season mark into the Sectional Class AA tournament at Steubenville. The Potter-Wellsville contest is scheduled to get under way at 9:30 following two other contests which finds Steubenville Big Red meeting Jefferson Union at 6:30 and Steubenville Central facing Wintersville at 8 p. m.

THE POTTERS haven't had any tournament luck to speak of since 1959, the last time a Blue and White team gained a victory in the tourney.

East Liverpool hasn't won the Sectional since 1957 when the Potters upset Steubenville Big Red in the finals but lost their first start in the District event to Zanesville.

If East Liverpool is successful tonight, the locals will meet the winner of the Wintersville-Central contest in the semi-finals Thursday.

The Big Red-Jefferson Union survivor goes up against top seeded Toronto in the other semi-final match Thursday.

UNIONTOWN gained its second WPIAL tournament win Monday and Midland will attempt to do the same tonight.

The big threat for Gateway is Cliff Parsons, the 6-10 giant, who was the top scorer in the WPIAL this season with 632 points.

Gateway ousted Washington, 62-51 Saturday night with Parsons collecting 24 points and 19 rebounds. His high for the season was a 56 points in a non-league battle.

Coach Rege Laughlin's team carries a 20-3 record against Midland but one loss on the card was a one-sided 81-49 decision to powerful Uniontown

-Junior Editors Quiz on-SNOWFLAKES

QUESTION: What makes snowflakes?

* * * ANSWER: Snow begins with the water vapor which is in clouds. If the conditions are just right, and the air is considerably below the freezing point of water, water vapor may crystalize as tiny snowflakes which then drift down as snow. Sometimes these flakes form around minute specks of dust in the air. The temperature in the cloud must generally be from 4 degrees below zero to 10 above before snow forms. The falling flakes may pass through warmer air which turns them into rain. Snow crystals are always six-sided and are said never to be exactly alike. They form designs of wonderful intricacy and beauty.

Ethel is showing us how to make our own snowflakes. Take a square piece of paper, fold it in half (1). Find center of folded edge, fold as in (2) so B equals A. Fold B over A (3). Fold through center, draw dotted line on fold. Draw cross line where it says "cut." Cut on this line and you have a triangle (4). Draw design from cut edges in on this as shown in (4); cut along these lines. Cut a few more snips on folded edges (big picture). Unfold; there's your snowflake.

FOR YOU TO DO: After making a few simple flakes as we show, try experimenting with a variety of snips to get effects like those at the lower right. At a party, give a prize for the best snowflake.

James Phelps of Maryville, Tenn., wins this week's grand for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors prize of a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia in care of The Review.
